Burning Allowed By Permit

Although outdoor burning is banned in most areas, Andover residents may still burn refuse on residential property until July 1, since the town does not provide municipal collection.

Town Manager J. Maynard Austin noted this week that while burning refuse and leaves is permissible, with a permit from the fire chief, burning on the street is prohibited by town bylaws.

This means there can be no burning of leaves at the curb. Austin said that burning can take place only on residential properties.

In co-operation with the state division of environmental health, the manager said, the town is aiming to co-operate with the open burning regulations.

Town bylaws stipulate that permits must be obtained from the fire chief for burning, with the additional provisions that atmospheric conditions, such as air pollution will be taken into consideration.

The town's single leaf pickup machine has been in operation and will be picking up deposits left at the curb.

With regard to municipal pickup of trash, the selectmen this week received a request that such a service be instituted. The board noted that the matter was now under study by the public works department and town manager.

Limousine Request Is Denied

A request by Direct Lines, a limousine service from Lawrence, to operate over interstate highways in Andover, was denied by the selectmen Monday night.

The service was to run from Lowell and Lawrence into Logan Airport over Routes 93 and 495 in Andover, making no local stops.

The board had previously rejected a bid by Hudson Bus Lines to provide a similar service. Hudson had planned Andover stops.

Paul Collins, operator of a local taxi and limousine service protested the allowing of Direct Lines to operate in Andover, despite the GET REPRIEVE. Teenagers at the Drop In center, the former Central fire station, won a reprieve Monday night as the selectmen voted to allow continued use of the building while a committee seeks another location. The building was scheduled for demolition next week.

Station Demolition Delayed

The former Central fire station will continue as a drop-in center for the youth of the community for another little while, until alternate facilities are found.

This was the decision of the selectmen Monday night, following lengthy discussion and a number of tie votes. The board finally agreed to a suggestion of Town Manager J. Maynard Austin that he be joined by three town officials and three representatives of the Student Activity Center (SAC) and work to find a suitable building as quickly as possible.

The use of the building was scheduled to terminate Saturday and demolition of the structure was to begin Monday. Bids have been received by the town from three firms for tearing down the building.

The SAC committee, headed by Gerald Faro, had asked that the town allow use of the building until at least next spring, possibly to the end of the school year.

The request was based on the fact that a master plan for recreation is currently underway and that possibly a drop-in center would be included. The extension would also allow time to seek other facilities.

It was pointed out that the building inspector had found 12 deficiencies, either structural or safety which would need correction, if the old station were to continue as a drop-in center. Cost of repairs was estimated at about $6,000.

Faro said that he felt some of the work could be accomplished by the students themselves, such as turning of doors to open out, instead of in.

He also said that heating cost estimates would be reduced since the building would not be in use all day, such as when the fire station was in operation. Heat would be turned down when the building was not in use.

James Carroll, faculty advisor to SAC, informed the board the town is faced with three major problems among youth, namely alcohol, drugs and sex. The drop-in center is meeting the needs to help solve these problems, Carroll said.

Town Manager J. Maynard Austin in his report, said that public recreation is a community function. He was impressed with the SAC activity at the high school, particularly in the gymnasium area.

The manager said he had talked with Stewart Allen, currently studying the town's recreation program, who felt that a drop-in center serves a useful purpose if it has proper leadership.

He noted the station was centrally located and almost out of residential areas.

Austin said he would like to have the selectmen make a commitment to the youth of the community and see that a center be provided.

He suggested that an effort be made to get the contractors of the town to assist in the problem. The manager felt that demolition of the building could be postponed but for a very short time.

In his report, the manager noted that in the long range planning being done by the school and town departments, there is consideration of the eventual phasing out of East Junior High school, as an educational facility. This would lead to the possible use as a community center, utilizing some portions of the building.

Following the reiterating of the SAC request to use the station through the winter, Selectman Sidney P. White moved that the request be granted, with the understanding that repairs be made as stipulated by the building inspector. He was joined by Selectmen William Stewart, but Selectmen Roger W. Collins and George Heseltine voted in the negative. Chairman Robert A. Watters abstained, stating that he wanted a unanimous vote to come out of the meeting.

Collins commented that he was all in favor of the program, but not in the present location. He moved that the current use be continued through Nov. 1 and that an alternate site be obtained as soon as possible. This also received a 2-2 vote. The representatives were asked if there was a backup spot available. Three school areas were ruled out, the Hurley property on

Director Resigns

Miss Frances Bold, director of Memorial Hall Library for a little over a year, has submitted her resignation to the trustees of the library. Effective date of the resignation is Dec. 11.

In a letter to the trustees last Friday, Miss Bold said that "Because of the uncertainty of the health of my parents and for other personal reasons, I hereby submit my resignation ... to become effective December 11, 1970."

The trustees accepted the resignation with regret. Chairman Frederick S. Allis Jr., chairman of the trustees, said in a letter to Miss Bold, "On behalf of the trustees, I write this letter to tell you we accept your resignation with regret. We can well understand your concern about the health of your parents and your desire to live and work near them."

Miss Bold came to the library Aug. 4, 1969. She had previously been employed by the library in New Bedford.

The resignation marks the second administrative change in recent months at the library.

Ronald Hubbs, assistant director, recently resigned to become head of the Melrose library.

Chairman Allis noted that the trustees are now faced with a difficult task of finding two replacements for the two administrators.

Emphasize Property Protection

The schools will continue to be generous with the use of school property, but hardened when it comes to abuse of that property.

With student damage to school property on the increase, locally as well as nationally, the school committee resoundingly endorsed Superintendent Dr. Seifert's strong-action proposal: that the schools press for full reimbursement of damage from persons found guilty of willful destruction of the school environment; this will include physical damage to school property or a bomb scare necessitating cancelling of classes.

Bomb scares last week effectively cut three days out of the school year last week, and the instances of broken windows and other destructive acts is up in Andover as in other communities. Three students face charges for the bomb scares.

Seifert pointed out that damage to school property is the work of a very few individuals out of a school body which is overwhelmingly a constructive force. He said that the school committee's strong-action policy would support the best efforts and morale of

Professional Negotiator Discussed

The school committee of four (Chairman Richard A. Katz lacking) went into executive session at 11 p.m. Tuesday to discuss teacher negotiations.

Obvious reason? The Andover Education Association, in secret ballot which some of its teacher members may challenge, voted to hire a professional negotiator from the Massachusetts Teacher Association, its state organization, to conduct its side of this year's collective bargaining.

School committee policy has been against hiring a professional negotiator, unless forced to by the AEA's going to a professional negotiator.

Mrs. Virginia Cole, the school committee's negotiator, said the committee's reluctance to hire a professional negotiator stems from the desire to deal directly with the Andover teachers, for mutual understanding of the problems of the community, of the teachers, and of the schools.

"In the five years we have had the Association, we have come

Appointed Director Of Course

Dr. William F. Brown, director of Avco Computer Services, Wilmington, has been appointed course director for a new Advanced Management Research (AMR) seminar, "Data and File Security." The announcement was made by G. Gregory Smith, manager of AMR's Information Management Division.

The one-day seminar, to be offered in various cities beginning this fall, will include discussion of proven ways to eliminate destruction or unauthorized release of computer data files. The program will be aimed at computing executives; data processing, systems, programming, and operations managers; as well as security specialists.

The need for the course was recognized by AMR as a result of the increasing exposure of sensitive data to fraud, theft, and destruction. This is due to a growing dependence on computers for storing sensitive and classified information. The complete destruction of the computer and data files would place the survival of many companies in jeopardy. Fraud or theft of vital data could have a significant impact on their future.

Dr. Brown, a member of the AMR advisory staff on numerous programs, is also a lecturer for AMR's Managing Computer Programming Course. As director of Avco Computer Services, Dr. Brown is responsible for one of the largest commercial computer service bureaus in New England. He has over 20 years' experience in the management systems and information sciences field.

Dr. Brown and his wife, Noma, reside at 20 Hemlock Road.

Honored On Retirement

Miss Margaret Hawkesworth was guest of honor at a dinner party tendered her by the faculty of the Andover Senior High school on Friday evening at Jack Hackett's Restaurant, Topsfield.

Miss Hawkesworth was a member of the social sciences department. Previous to her retirement, she had taught in the Andover School system for twenty-five years.

She was presented gifts of a marble top table and a camera.

The committee on arrangements included Wilbur Hixon, head of the social science department, chairman; Mrs. Wilbur Hixon, Miss Agnes V. Dugan, head of business education department; Mrs. Madeleine Simeone, Paul Hopkins, and Miss Cynthia Mason.

Observance Of Sukot At Temple

Temple Emanuel, 483 Lowell St., Lawrence, serving the Greater Lawrence area, ushered in the festival of Sukot on Wednesday evening, Oct. 14 and family services will be held on Thursday morning, Oct. 15.

The festival will extend from the 15th to the 22nd. Services throughout the festival will be conducted by Rabbi Harry A. Roth and Cantor Irving Shuman. At one time this festival had many names and titles: Chag Ha-Asif, the Festival of the Ingathering; Chag Ha-Sukot; the Festival of the Booths; and Chag Adonai, God's Festival. Similar to both Pesach and Shavuot, Sukot played a much greater role in the life of the people than did the other two agricultural festivals.

When the Temple of Solomon was erected in Jerusalem, Sukot was the first festival observed there.

The conclusion of the festival in the old days was marked by the evening sacrifice in the Temple. The Jews, standing in the court, watched intently to see the direction in which the smoke from the fire would blow. It was an omen of the coming year. If the smoke blew to the north, the poor would be happy and the rich mournful since that was an omen of a rainy year. Food would be cheap, thus helping the poor. If the smoke blew south, the poor would be sad and the rich happy for a dry year meant a rise in food prices and the dealers would profit at the expense of the consumers. Smoke to the east pleased all; smoke to the west foretold a year of famine for all.

Services will be held at 10:30 a.m. on Thursday, Oct. 15. There will also be festival and Sabbath Services on Friday evening, on Oct. 16 at 8:15 p.m. Concluding services for the festival will be held on Wednesday evening, Oct. 21 at which time Yizkor Memorial Services will be recited. At this evening service also the traditional Hakofot will be celebrated and children will participate in the services with special banners and flags. The holidays will conclude on Thursday morning, Oct. 22 with Yizkor Memorial Services recited again at 10:30 a.m.

Academy Council Introduced

The first Student Council assembly of Nazareth Academy for the present school year was held on Friday, Sept. 18. Sheila Doherty, president, began the meeting by introducing the new officers to the student body as follows: Terry DuBois, vice president; Mari Shiel, secretary; Roberta Tricomi, treasurer and Angela Reardon, vice president of the Northeastern Division of Student Councils.

Angela Reardon explained to the students the idea of having only four class officers instead of four officers for each home room, as in previous years. The student body voted on this and it was decided that there would be four officers for the entire class.

Mari Shiel announced to the girls a list of school clubs which will be formed this year, as follows: Athletic Club, Ecology Club, Culture Club, Social Service Club, Pep Club and Drama Club.

Terry DuBois suggested having subcommittees which would not only work closely with the Student Council but would also urge more students to become involved in school activities.

Roberta Tricomi suggested having a school newspaper to which any one might contribute.

The Student Council urged that as many students as possible become involved in school activities this year.

Introducing Dr. McGrail

SERVING EAST JUNIOR HIGH as principal is Dr. Richard McGrail, former junior high teacher, department head and principal, who came to Andover this summer from Boston College, where he taught and earned his doctorate. McGrail, pictured in the EJHS cafeteria, hopes to meet parents and friends of East Junior High here on Monday evening, to get their views.

The TOWNSMAN this week introduces another new school administrator, Dr. Richard McGrail, new principal of East Junior High school. The McGrails have been residents of Apartment 12, Crescent Drive, here in Andover, since he completed his assignment as lecturer in the Boston College's graduate school of education this summer, and took over as head of East.

Dick McGrail's avocation and vital interest is teacher training, his key word is "sensitizing" ... sensitizing himself to his fellow administrators and teachers, his students, his East Junior High parents, and trying to help each of these to sensitize themselves to each other, as individuals, not just as groups of "they's."

Next Monday evening, Oct. 19, Principal McGrail will have the chance to meet the parents of his students, at a Friends of East Junior High meeting in the school cafeteria, at 7:30 p.m. All parents and other interested citizens are invited. At this informal get-together refreshments will be served and speeches kept to a minimum. McGrail told the TOWNSMAN his aim was "to sensitize myself to what the parents feel are the critical issues of education, in Andover and at East Junior High School."

"We are committed to listening," McGrail pointed out, "listening to teachers, to students, to parents. Students and teachers are more or less captive audiences but parents are harder to reach, to listen to, about what kind of programs the school should initiate. They don't know how I feel, and I don't know how they feel -- and there are lots of 'they's'."

What does "sensitizing" mean? What will be the result if McGrail is successful at sensitizing himself and others, the Curious Citizen wonders? Sensitizing, to McGrail, seems to be a long-term process of becoming sensitive, or aware, of the differences and different needs of individuals. It is the key to his approach to teacher training.

It means teachers recognizing students (and students recognizing teachers, parents, etc) as individuals, instead of categorizing them as groups. McGrail sees this as a particular need in a world and country that are becoming more populated, in danger of becoming mass-computerized.

The results of a school's or a school system's students, teachers and parents being sensitized to each other? Easy changes and variations in school offerings improve their work, and get credit for it, right here within the system." Dr. McGrail will be teaching one of the inservice courses, dealing with curriculum development.

Any Andover East Junior High parents who wish to sensitize the new principal to their educational ideas can find him next Monday evening where the TOWNSMAN found him this week -- in the school cafeteria.

Hockey Plans Announced

The Andover Hockey Association has recently announced plans for the 1970-'71 season with the starting date of the program slated for Saturday, Nov. 21.

The program, which provides hockey instruction and team participation, is open to all boys who reside in Andover or who attend school in Andover provided they were born on or after Jan. 1, 1956, but before Jan. 1, 1964.

Registration forms have been mailed to eligible boys who participated in the program last year and these must be returned by mail no later than Oct. 23. A registration day for boys new to the program will be held on Saturday, Oct. 24, from 9 to 11 a.m. at the Sumner Smith Hockey Rink at Phillips Academy. Boys new to the program who wish to register prior to that time may request registration forms by writing to the Andover Hockey Association, Box 167, Andover. Registrations will be accepted after Oct. 24 only as vacancies exist.

Each boy furnishes his own equipment for the program (skates, pads, sticks, gloves, helmet, mouthguard, etc.) with the exception of goalie's protective equipment which is provided by the association. No boy will be allowed on the ice without a helmet and mouthguards are strongly recommended.

Each boy is required to pay a participation fee of $15 which will be used for the purchase of team jerseys, hockey injury insurance, equipment and ice fees.

Participants in the program are grouped by age and ability. Last year over 275 boys took part in the program.

Coaches are provided for all age groups with instruction ranging from skating skills for beginners to individual and team skills for the older boys. The directors of the Association have announced that coaches are needed at several levels of the program and those interested in assisting in the program are asked to contact Richard Neal (475-1543) or Lyman Bullard (475-2813) or to write to Box 167, Andover.

A coaches clinic designed to review rule changes and to coordinate instruction at all levels is planned for the Phillips Academy Rink on Wednesday, Nov. 18, at 6:30 p.m. On-ice demonstrations are planned as well as chalkboard instruction.

Once again the Association's top Bantam team (boys aged 13 and 14) will play an international schedule with a Canadian tour planned for mid-February. Last year's team lost only one of nine games played against Canadian competition.

Students Commended

Letters of Commendation honoring them for their high performance on the 1970 National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (NMQT) have been awarded to 11 students at Andover High School, Principal Philip Wormwood has announced.

Celebrity Series To Open

Sherrill Milnes, leading baritone with the Metropolitan Opera, will open Merrimack College's Celebrity Series with a recital in the collegiate chapel at 8:30 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 18.

Milnes comes to the Merrimack Valley from the successful opening of the Met's 86th season. He received rave reviews in his role of Carlo in Verdi's "Ernani." Milnes became a star overnight after his debut in "Faust" with the Met in 1965. In the subsequent seasons he has sung almost every major baritone role at the Metropolitan Opera, and he has accepted invitations to sing with the Vienna State Opera and the London Opera Society, and he has also performed in Rome, Milan, and other centers of opera throughout the world.

His musical background is extensive. Although he entered college as a pre-med student, he realized that music was what he wanted, and he transferred to Drake University in Des Moines, where he was graduated with top honors in all subjects. He began his professional singing with the Margaret Hillis Choir, connected with the Chicago Symphony. He also sung in Protestant choirs and Jewish synagogues.

In 1960, Mr. Milnes decided to venture into opera. He spent the next five years working in small opera houses, learning stage department and receiving training under maestro Boris Goldovsky which he considers invaluable.

Milnes is an exclusive RCA recording artist, and has recorded many records under that label, including a solo aria album "The Baritone Voice"; "Traviata";
"Cosi Fan Tutti"; the Brahms

"Requiem"; and "Salome."

The program for the October 18 recital will include selections
by Bach, Mozart, Hugo Wolf,
Joseph Marx, Maurice Ravel, Moussorgsky, Tchaikovsky, Norman Delio Joio, Arthur Sommervell, and John Sacco.

Both reserved seat and general admission tickets for the recital are available in advance at the college library or by contacting Prof. John Murphy, Box 893, Merrimack College, North Andover, Mass. 01845. Tickets are also available for the entire series, including Milnes' recital, highlights from the "World of Gilbert and Sullivan" by stars of D'Oyly Carte fame, Mozart pianist Lili Kraus, and a performance of "Oedipus Rex" by the National Shakespeare Company.

Education Forum Is Planned

A Citizens' Forum on Education in Andover on Sunday, Nov. 15 at the high school will aim to involve the community -- school administrators, high school students, parents, and all interested adults -- in forum and group discussions of "Where we are in education today, in Andover."

Two Andover citizens, Joshua Miner, president of Outward Bound in America, and Thayer Warshaw, Newton high school teacher, will lead the Sunday afternoon forum. Miner will address the participants in "Experiences in Education," and Warshaw will be forum moderator.

Co-chairmen of the citizens planning committee sponsoring the Citizens' Forum is Mrs. John Atanasoff and Mrs. Garrick Stephens. They said that discussion topics directly relating to public school education in Andover would come from forum participants. 20 leaders have been secured for the discussion groups, and each will include, if possible, at least one parent, educator, high school student and town official.

The Citizens' Forum, which seeks full community participation and broad representation, was planned with the cooperation of the school administration and with the aid of the education committee of the Andover League of Women Voters.

Superintendent Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert told the TOWNSMAN he was delighted to cooperate, by urging the active participation of his staff as well as himself and by offering the high school facilities for the forum. "The more information we can get from the community, the better we are able to go in the direction the community wants to go."

Doctor Explains Dangers

Andover West Junior High School is expanding all of its programs to include visiting lecturers from all of the professions who have special talents that will enhance the school curriculum.

Dr. Roger Nelson, thoracic surgeon at the New England Memorial Hospital, recently presented a program on the effects of smoking on health. Dr. Nelson is a member of the Greater Boston Inter-Agency for smoking and health. This agency coordinates the activities of the profession and focuses on community health problems.

Mrs. Mary Hocknell, a member of the Health Education team coordinated the program through Tufts University Health Education Department.

Dr. Nelson began his program by presenting a film entitled "Time Pulls The Trigger" which was followed by a lively question and answer period. In addition Dr. Nelson showed X-rays which identified both healthy and damaged body tissues.

Following the presentation in the school auditorium Dr. Nelson displayed actual samples of lungs with emphysema damage as well as damaged heart tissues.

Each student was presented with a pamphlet which gave further details on the dangerous effects of smoking to a person's health.

Pep Pills Can Affect Heart

By Mark D. Altschuler, M.D.

Drugs have moved into the spotlight this year, primarily because we've found our children sniffing glue, taking speed, trying other drugs, literally "blowing their minds" -- and even dying.

This phenomenon of lasting brain damage or sudden death from mind-altering drugs is a tragedy, to be sure, but it should not take our attention away from these kids' parents -- our over-tranquilized, ever pill-popping middle-aged Americans.

This huge group of well-meaning people are doing themselves a great disservice as a result of their ignorance about their own bodies. With their frequently self-prescribed drugs to calm themselves down or pep themselves up, they are asking for possible heart damage, and in turn, endangering their own lives.

When a physician prescribes a drug as medicine, he very carefully weighs the risk of giving it to the patient against the risk of not doing so, because he knows that technically speaking all drugs are "poisons." (This does not apply to vitamins and hormones given in small amounts to repair a deficiency).

Drugs are used as medicine because they exert on the body, or on the bacteria attacking it, one kind of poisonous effect which counteracts or reduces the effects of another kind of poisoning that we call disease.

But even if a drug has been prescribed by a physician, it still should not be regarded as completely free of more or less harmful side effects. This should point up the danger to people who decide to take drugs without prescription for whatever pleasant or socially desirable effects they believe will be produced (pain killers, sleeping pills, alcohol, and tobacco are included here).

Certain medications prescribed by physicians have been shown to cause heart damage if large doses are taken over a long period of time. Some pep drugs (tricyclic and piperidine antidepressant groups) can cause changes in the heart rhythm. The second of these is also known to aggravate pre-existing coronary artery disease.

One cardiologist, presenting a paper at a Heart Association seminar, reported that enlargement of the heart, or even heart attacks could result from long-term intake of two other groups of drugs (phenothiazin tranquilizers and imipramine antidepressants).

He suggested that if people are to take these drugs over long periods of time their doctors should take electrocardiograms (to check on heart rhythm) and chest X-rays (to check on heart size) every three to six months to detect possible changes. He also had found that heart damage and rhythm changes may last for months or even permanently after the drug intake has stopped.

A strange and surprising effect of still another group of antidepressant drugs which physicians prescribe (monoamine inhibitors) is that people who take them and also drink red wines or eat certain cheeses may show marked elevations of blood pressure. High blood pressure, if unchecked, can lead to heart attacks, stroke, or kidney disease.

As for the mind-altering drugs, abused mainly by young people, none damages the heart directly, as far as we know. However, we do know that they have an adverse effect on the circulatory system, chiefly by acting on nerves regulating the heart beat and the function of peripheral blood vessels. The hundreds of deaths that occur every year in young persons taking these drugs result from their stopping breathing -- a result of the drugs' direct effect on the respiratory center.

For further information on the care of the heart, contact your Northeast Chapter, Massachusetts Heart Association located at 79 North Main St., Andover, Mass. 01810.

ARTISTRY. One of the works of Maria Boes, German born painter, who has returned to Andover. She has exhibited her work in Germany, Brazil and in the Boston area.

To Exhibit Paintings

When Maria Boes, German-born painter, arrived in the United States about 15 years ago, she settled in Andover. Circumstances forced her to leave, but she was always determined to return to the town that had given her her first home in this country. This year she finally returned to Andover.

Maria's paintings are strongly influenced by European folk art and South American motifs. They show people in surrealistic environments painted in warm vibrant colors that impart a dreamlike mythical quality to her scenes. The human form and its surroundings are stylized but alive, conveying the impression of suppressed excitement and joyfulness steeped in a bit of mystery - they live a secret life of their own.

Maria is a graduate of the Academy of Fine Arts in Munich Germany. She has exhibited her paintings in galleries in Frankfurt/Main, Sao Paulo, Brazil, where she lived for several years before coming to this country, and in several small galleries in the Boston area. In the spring of next year, she will have a one-woman show at the Gallery of the Copley Society in Boston. She is a member of the Cambridge Art Association and The Copley Society.

Since Maria has always enjoyed teaching, she has started to give painting classes in her home.

SOUVENIRS FROM ABROAD engross Terry Bartow, left, who brought the flag and woodenware back from his summer as an AFS-er in Barbados and Dan Inness. Dan spent his summer with a family near Toulouse, France. The boys will be at the AFS International Gourmet Buffet Wednesday at the Voke School.

Summer Experiences Abroad

A carefree summer in the Caribbean island of Barbados within walking distance of the beach, for AFSer Terry Bartow - Dan Inness's summer in a lonely French countryside mill in a family that experienced a terrible financial loss during his visit . . . these summertime AFS experiences were worlds apart, emotionally, and geographically, yet the two Andover boys each felt that theirs had been a great experience, that their regret was that it ended too soon.

Terry had only four days notice when he flew off to Miami, for a briefing, then joined the Barbados family of Mr. and Mrs. Mote. Truss for the summer. Barbados is only 12 x 18 miles big, but Terry feels that a year there would have been a good time to develop the relationships and understandings he made in eight weeks. He lived in an extended family of many members, where each enjoyed independence, went their various ways, and met for a large family supper to exchange experiences in the evening.

A young British boy became part of the household too, and Terry came home impressed at the saner pace of life in Barbados "everyone has time for everyone else, time for the little things that mean so much."

Dan's AFS family in Lombez, a small French town near the Spanish border, ran a grain and flour mill. Life there was at a slow pace too, as far as entertainment went, but the French parents were hard working from dawn to dark - only to experience the economic disaster of a fire that burned their silo full of grain.

Dan met other AFS students who had lived gayer lives on the continent, more of a vacation than his experience, but he wouldn't trade it for the understanding he gained by living within the day-to-day life and work of his French family. Except for a trip to Paris, Dan's excitement was the disastrous fire - the neighbors who came to help, the tables set for 30 as everyone pitched in to pick up the pieces after the fire. A summer was too short, though, and Dan, like Terry, wished it could have stretched into a year, for a better knowledge of the language, a deeper understanding of the country and its people.

Safety

Safety is everybody's business as most everyone is aware, but too often is not as cognizant as they should be.

Industry spends countless sums of money impressing upon their employees the meaning and value of safety, not only while on the job, but at home and during vacation periods as well.

Particularly in the forefront in this area is Western Electric in North Andover, which has put on extensive safety programs, both for employees and the public.

But it becomes apparent from time to time, that all the lessons, dramatically brought home to all, sometimes fail to be remembered, or possibly just neglected.

It is with this thought that we comment on a couple of particular items which become increasing disturbing these days.

First we might mention —

Bicycles

— which most certainly are a fine device for physical fitness.

Far be it to dissuade those who wish to gain exercise via the two-wheeled device.

It is healthful and relaxing when used properly and certainly one must assume most beneficial as we notice the pictures of the famed Dr. Paul Dudley White, often 'cycling in the Boston area.

But the vehicle and its path must be respected.

Possibly our efforts should be aimed at the younger generation, but in some cases, as we have witnessed particularly this past weekend, the older people, out for exercise, might also take heed.

Some of the dangers include two persons riding bikes in such a manner as to make it hazardous for motorists to pass between them, in other words taking up much of the travelled way with the two bikes.

There is the dangerous practice of riding two on a bike, mostly practiced by the younger generation.

Some cyclists ride too far out in the travelled way.

Clusters of enthusiasts often occupy a considerable portion of the travelled way, making passage dangerous, particularly on heavily travelled roads.

And, a prominent downtown danger in particular and hazardous anywhere, is the practice of riding bikes on the sidewalks. This presents a danger to pedestrians, as well as being illegal.

Occasionally one can spot in one of the TOWNSMAN'S Down the Years column a weekly report of some youth being severely fined in court for such action back 25 years or more ago. Possibly the practice should be reinstituted.

While we encourage this healthy exercise, it is also wise to caution that participants should be mindful of safety, not just to themselves, but to others.

Courtesy and safety go hand in hand in such a case.

And, while we are on the subject of safety, we would like to comment once again on —

Sidewalks

— which are provided in many areas of town by public funds, only to be disregarded by school children, for whom they are intended as a safety convenience.

Thousands of dollars are spent here annually to protect youngsters going to and from schools.

In addition to sidewalks, there are crossing guards to assist youngsters across intersections.

The paved walks are maintained by the town at considerable expense, including plowing of same in winter months.

Yet, despite all these safety measures, the youngsters manage to break up into small packs wandering precariously on the roadways, oblivious to traffic, and causing motorists to weave around them.

We appreciate that young people can sometimes become oblivious to conditions around them, but in such a matter as walking to and from school, their attention span should at least remain focused on personal safety.

Safety officials do all within their power to impress the youngsters with the importance of remaining in line and on the sidewalks, but their efforts can only go so far.

A reminder from home could make the matter more impressive.

After all, safety is everybody's business.

At The Library

Beethoven

In December of this year the entire world will pay homage to the memory of Ludwig Von Beethoven. In honor of the 200th anniversary of his birth Memorial Hall Library has been acquiring recently published biographies of Beethoven's life. The most impressive is one on display at this time in the library titled "Ludwig Von Beethoven" and edited by Joseph Schmidt-Gorg and Hans Schmidt. This handsome, oversized volume with beautiful prints and watercolors on almost every page to illustrate the text was first published in Hamburg in 1969, then by Praeger in New York City in 1970. The new biographies on display are accompanied by some of Beethoven's musical recordings. Off The Top

Of The Desk

Wouldn't be surprised if a lot of motorists found themselves with dead or weakened batteries over the weekend.

The early morning fog caused many to turn on their headlights while going to work. At the early hour, many parked the car and left the lights on.

We noticed many a car in parking lots around the area with lights on shining as late as mid-morning in many instances.

Easy item to forget during daylight hours, since the lights on the dashboard seldom can be seen under daylight conditions, even in the fog.

Speaking of the fog conditions, we have to remind once again that motorists should be aware of changes in road conditions.

In many cases, drivers proceeded as if the pavement was dry and visibility clear, motoring along at or in excess of speed limits, passing cars, unaware of what may be in front.

Despite Route 93, which carries thousands of cars daily, Route 28 would appear to be coming back in popularity.

Over the holiday weekend, the particular highway was a busy place here in Andover as motorists streamed over South Main, and North Main streets in both directions.

Monday appeared to be particularly heavy, after the weather cleared, more than likely due to families taking a foliage trip.

For the benefit of those who have not already seen to their twice-a-year duty, today is the final day for obtaining an inspection sticker for your car.

Failure to pass inspection and obtain the sticker today means the vehicle will be banned from the highway after midnight.

Inspectors will be checking beginning early Friday morning.

Well, the winter hot stove league certainly got plenty of fodder this week with the Red Sox trading of Tony Conigliaro.

The action of the Red Sox sending the popular right fielder to California, will more than likely be debated until next season's opener.

While on the sports scene, it might be noted that it was a wonderful weekend with football, baseball, hockey and basketball all intertwined to whet the appetite of any fan -- that is if he wasn't on the golf course.

Would you like to go for a guided walk in the out-of-doors to see the autumn colors? The Ipswich River Nature Center and Wildlife Sanctuary located on Perkins Row in Topsfield is planning just such a nature walk from 2 to 4 Sunday afternoon, Oct. 18. Bring your family! No fee.

An acquaintance was a bit surprised this past week as he browsed in a North Reading bookstore.

He kept watching a gentleman for some time until his curiosity got the best of him and went over and said, "aren't you Reggie Smith?"

The Red Sox centerfielder replied in the affirmative and expressed pleasure at the chance meeting.

What Our Readers Say

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN

Commenting on your editorial of October 8 on "Conservation", while industry is already slated to get about 50 acres in the vicinity of the lots in question along the Shawsheen River, you would like industry to get, additionally, the "useable" part of the six acres of dry land of these lots, with conservation being "assured" of the part of the land not useable by industry! And you becloud the issue by introducing the matter of attracting industry to give us tax revenue, as if it made any difference to an industry wishing to locate here whether it got 50, rather than 53, acres.

You assert the issue was emotional. Were the carefully reasoned report of the Planning Board, and the studied conclusion of the League of Women Voters, both approving the transfer to the Conservation Commission, emotional? But if emotion was involved, it was that of self defense for the permanent preservation of our community values against the expediency of possible temporary financial gain. If this attitude be "treason" in respect to the type of thinking your editorial supports, then I would say, with Patrick Henry, "make the most of it!"

River Cleanup By Canoe

The Ipswich River Canoe Cleanup Committee is calling for volunteers who would like to spend a day of fun and accomplishment on Saturday, Oct. 24. The task is a thorough litter run along the Ipswich River from Middleton to the sea (low water conditions make it almost impossible to navigate any further upstream than the Route 114 bridge in Middleton, however, any real hearty group that would like to cover the upper reaches on foot, would certainly be welcome).

Several conservation oriented groups located in the towns along the River's course are cooperating to make the trip a success and also in "dividing the spoils." Mass. Audubon's Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary in Topsfield, will act as middle man, directing litter pickup as well as providing transportation for canoeists and serving as a communication center through the day. Anyone who has his own canoe or who can borrow one for the trip is welcome to pitch in. You can sign up for the entire trip or just a short segment, depending on the time and energy that you feel you have to offer. The Canoe Cleanup Committee does have a few canoes available for loan. Harold Foote, of Foote and Sons Canoe Livery, Willowdale Dam, Ipswich, has donated the use of his canoes, as have the August camp division of the Appalachian Mountain Club and the Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary.

Youngsters In Visit To Hospital

Bon Secours Hospital, Methuen was the scene of the first "field trip" of the school year for nursery and kindergarten pupils of St. Robert's Country Day School. On Wednesday, Oct. 14, the boys and girls had an ideal opportunity to see a hospital when they were feeling well and learn that it wasn't a "scary place." Included on the tour was a visit to the laboratory, x-ray department and the pediatrics ward where a "croup tent" was set up for the children to inspect. Also some of the children were given a ride on a stretcher.

The visit to the hospital is part of the school's fall curriculum on "Community Helpers."

Last week the firemen visited the school and showed the children a brand new engine. In the next few weeks the youngsters will be given a chance to visit with a policeman, nurse and dentist.

Music To Our Ears

By Edward P. Grigoli

Since instrumental lessons have started for a large number of beginners at the elementary level, I feel it is important for parents as well as students to know how to care for their instruments.

This week we will start with the brass instruments such as the trumpet, cornet, baritone horn, French horn and alto horn. Although some of these instruments are larger than others they all function with valves.

Minor dents and nicks are inevitable in bells and should be left alone; everytime they are removed, the temper of the bell metal is hardened. Dents should be removed by an experienced repair man.

Polish with strong cleaners is equally bad; each time the instrument is polished, a certain quantity of metal is actually buffed off so that the bell becomes lighter. Some individuals have a certain type of acid in their perspiration which tends to combine with the acetate base of the lacquer and eat the metal away. Therefore, wipe your instrument off carefully when you put it away.

The most important thing to remember in the care and maintenance of brass instruments is lubrication and cleanliness.

All slides should be kept well greased and valves well oiled. The grease and oil is generally available in any well equipped music store. Students should ask their music teacher for instructions in the application.

All felt pads should be replaced whenever they show wear.

The importance of cleanliness cannot be exaggerated.

The moist interior of a brass instrument is an ideal place for the breeding of germs; when warmed by being played an unclean instrument produces an obnoxious odor and a dirty instrument corrodes rapidly. So play it clean!

Fall Fashion Show Tonight At Academy

At 8 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 15, "Fall Fashion Fun," will be presented for the Guild of the Academy of Our Lady of Nazareth, at Nazareth's Emiliana Center in Wakefield.

The models will include Nazareth students, Guild members, Nazareth alumnae; featuring Donna Vacca, and also a faculty member, Mrs. April McGrath.

Claudina Quinn, wife of Massachusetts Attorney General Robert H. Quinn, will also grace the runway. Mrs. Quinn, formerly a professional model, now models only for charity.

Tickets are $5.00 for adults, $3.00 for students, and may be purchased from Mrs. Charles O'Leary of Melrose, 665-7778 or from Mrs. Eugene H. Sheehan, 475-0381, the area chairman of Andover. Proceeds of the fashion show will go to the Nazareth Building Fund, a cause concerning all who are interested in continuing the present success of Nazareth Academy.

Patrick B. O'Connor

O'Connor Is Honored By Elks

Patrick B. O'Connor, a charter member of the Andover Lodge of Elks, has been awarded honorary life membership by the lodge, it was announced by Exalted Ruler Lawrence Huffling.

In addition to being a charter member and a past exalted ruler, O'Connor was instrumental in the negotiations which culminated in the acquiring of the former Fieldstone's restaurant as new home for the Andover lodge.

The local lodge has granted this honor to only two other members, George Parker, its organizer and James Coleman for his guidance and devotion in early years.

Mr. O'Connor will manage the new lodge home. At present the building is being completely renovated to its early American character. Plans for completion are still indefinite.

For Those Of Us Who Are Older

Because of the heartening demand for tickets for the fall foliage tour sponsored by The Andover Haven Associates for Wednesday, Oct. 21, a second bus will be made available. About half the second bus is already sold out, but there is still quite a bit of room for any Andover senior citizen who would like to go along.

The fare for the trip is two dollars, payable at The Haven when reservation is made. Lunch will be at The Old Mill and choice must be made when reservations are placed because The Old Mill requires five days notice on number of guests and choice of menu. Cost of lunch will be in addition to bus fare. Destination for the group is Westminster in the shadow of Mount Wachusett.

Every Andover citizen over 60 is eligible to participate in the activities of The Haven, senior citizen drop-in center sponsored by the Andover Council on Aging. The center is open daily from ten in the morning until four in the afternoon for rest, relaxation, a cup of coffee or tea, companionship, games, color TV, as well as classes in painting, crewel embroidery, personal sewing (a new group starting Oct. 14) and a bowling group.

In conjunction with the school department, the council also sponsors a daily hot lunch program at East Junior High. Details of all these activities may be learned by calling The Haven (475-3968) or better, by "dropping in."

Fifty million Americans drink water that does not meet Public Health Service standards. Another 45 million drink water that has not been tested by the Public Health Service, and 105 million drink water that meets Federal standards, the Massachusetts Audubon Society reports.

school administration and teachers.

High School Principal Philip Wormwood described willful acts of destructions as local symptoms of national problems and sicknesses, suggested by destructive or vicious acts on the national scene. He supported strong action locally to confront specific acts. Then he piled a few more bricks on his own workload by pointing out that education must help youngsters come to grips with the fundamentals posed in the problems themselves.

Both these administrators and the four school committee members present later commented favorably on a pamphlet read by all, "Students, Schools and the Tides of Change," for its realistic, often jarring appraisal of present and imminent trends and currents on which young people are carried. All agreed on the need for the pamphlet's wide distribution, with public discussion and reaction.

Dr. Seifert and Committeeman Dr. Daniel Frishman independently had arrived at the same cost figures for last week's bomb scares - over $6000 a day, at more than $5 per student per day - or close to $20,000 of high school education down the drain last week.

The newly seated teacher's representative on the school committee, high school biology teacher Jeremy Lake, offered the view that at least three days of the educational program were shot, from a teacher's point of view, since it was hard to accomplish much in the atmosphere of last week. Student member John Wooten reported that the large number of students he had checked out were fed up by the bomb scares.

Wooten also reported that the area meetings, in various fields of study, of the new student faculty form of government for the high school were "a big step toward full communication between teachers and students." He was impressed that students participated freely, and constructively.

Teacher Lake agreed that the new form of government, still developing, "seems to provide many more avenues for communication between students and faculty, more chances for participation for more individual student and faculty members. They feel a part of it, instead of having the government apart from them."

Athletic and Physical Education Director Donald D. Dunn won hearty commendations from the superintendent and the school committee for his new physical education curriculum development. The TOWNSMAN also was praised for its feature coverage of the new curriculum last week.

Educators To Evaluate High School

A group of 25 educators from four states will conduct an evaluation of Andover High School on Oct. 19, 20, and 21. The group has been selected by and will represent the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Burton G. MacArthur, principal of Exeter High School, Exeter, N.H. will serve as chairman.

The evaluation process is the means by which the school is accredited by the association. The longest period for which accreditation is granted is ten years. Andover High was last evaluated in 1960.

As part of the evaluation process, the staff at the high school has been conducting a self-evaluation. The results of this study are given to the visiting committee, which in turn reviews every phase of the school program. The visiting committee then will make a report to local officials, pointing out strengths as well as making recommendations for any improvements they feel are necessary.

Girls Study In Spain

Margaret F. Couch, a student at Abbot Academy, Ellen L. Hoitsma, a student at the Pingree School, and Janis A. Tomlinson, a student at the American High School, Barcelona, Spain, all of Andover, are spending this academic year in Spain studying under the School Year Abroad program. Seventy-eight students from secondary schools throughout the nation are enrolled for studies in France or Spain.

The program, formerly known as Schoolboys Abroad, is under the joint auspices of Phillips Academy, Andover; The Phillips Exeter (N. H.) Academy and St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H. The students represent public and parochial schools as well as private boarding schools.

This year, for the first time, girls have been accepted for the Spanish program. In 1971, they will be able to enroll for the French year and for a German school year to be opened in Hannover. They return to their own schools as seniors.

At Monserrat

Lorraine Croteau of 180 Beacon St. is studying this year at the Montserrat School of Visual Art, Beverly, a new four-year institution for the training of professional artists.

An educational facility of the non-profit North Shore Community Arts Foundation, Montserrat offers an intensive course of studies taught by a faculty composed exclusively of practicing professional artists. The school is headed by noted Gloucester painter and teacher, Joseph Jeswald.

Two Enter Simmons

To the 375 freshmen entering Simmons College this fall, women's colleges still hold a relevant place in an academic era marked by an increasing trend towards coeducational institutions.

Located in Boston's historic Back Bay, Simmons has long been noted for its distinctive curriculum which combines liberal arts and professional training for women on the undergraduate level. Currently in its third year under an experimental Honors-Pass-Fail grading system for all courses, the 1500-student college has been innovative in the educational field since its founding in 1899.

Among the members of the class of 1974 was Barbara Helene Wacholder, daughter of Mr. Benjamin Wacholder, of 60B Washington Park Drive. A 1970 graduate of Andover High school, Barbara was a member of the National Honor Society, was a student council representative, was the lay-out editor of the school newspaper, and was a member of the Spanish Club.

Suzanne Kirk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Kirk, of 65 Haggetts Pond Road. Also a 1970 graduate of Andover High school, Suzanne was vice president of the American Field Service, was the social chairman of the Latin club, and was a member of the Varsity club.

Miss Woodworth At Colby Junior

Miss Jane T. Woodworth is among more than 300 freshmen who arrived at Colby Junior College recently to begin their studies.

Miss Woodworth is the daughter of Mrs. Katherine W. Woodworth of 5 Stirling St.

Colby Junior College is a 134-year old college for women located in the Lake Umbagog recreational region of western New Hampshire.

She is one of nearly 600 students from 22 states and seven foreign countries registered for the fall term at Colby.

Visit their beautiful showroom at 39 Haverhill Street, headquarters for the "Better Idea" cars for '71. Go for a test drive and these cars will sell themselves.

The new pinto shown above is a little carefree car, sized right down with the economy imports, guaranteed to go a long way between gas stops, service intervals and repair bills. It is big where it counts - on the inside. Front passengers get 7 inches more shoulder room than in most imports, more headroom in back and more knee room.

Ford for 1971 is all new, more beautiful, and quiet as ever. These Fords are the most luxurious ever designed: lavish LTD Broughams, elegant LTD's, handsome Galaxie 500's, a smart Custom 500, and seven wagons topped by the incomparable Country Squire. On every Ford wagon, the 3-way door-gate opens down as a tailgate or out as a door, with the window up or down.

Ford Torino is the Ford that gives you better ideas for less, in 14 easily affordable models. It is years ahead in aerodynamic styling. You can expect it to be great... except for the price.

Mustang is America's challenge to the great European road cars, with new size and stance for better handling. Maverick is the Simple Machine and proof that you don't have to spend a lot to get a lot of car. The Thunderbird is an exhilarating escape from conformity, and there are 3 new Birds this year: 2-door hardtop, 2-door Landau, 4-door Landau.

The Men of Shawsheen invite you to stop in any time. Shawsheen Motors is open weekday evenings until 9 and Saturdays until 5 for your convenience. See and drive the "Better idea" car for the '70's. There is something for everyone in Ford's new line.

Robert Bowser will be West Jr. High Debating Coach, at $337.50. Mrs. Sandra Chhatpar the West Jr. High Dramatics coach at $487.50, while Miss Barbara Gerry and John Darrin will co-sponsor the West Jr. High Math League, each for $168.75.

Boosters Drive To Be Next Week

The Andover Boosters Club will conduct their annual membership drive next week, making a house-to-house canvass the evenings of Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

This year, the Boosters, which have assisted high school and youth programs since its founding several years ago, is hopeful of extending its activity into the junior high level.

It is also hoped to obtain youthful support in its membership drive. The group feels that young participation is necessary to foster the goals and aims of the organization.

Through its scholarship program, the Boosters have assisted 84 boys and girls through college, assisted students in hardship cases, presented trophies and other awards for outstanding scholarship.

In its 22 years of existence, the organization has aided students in the amount of $48,500.

Frederick Allen Jr., is president of the Boosters this year. Students from the high school, with adult leaders assisting, will canvass the homes beginning Monday.
